Brand Guidelines

Brand Principles

Consistency is the foundation of every design decision

Every element you design should feel part of the same visual system. From icons to illustrations to layout structures, nothing should feel isolated. When in doubt, ask: does this belong to the whole?

Always use the grid

A strong grid is the foundation of every layout. Use it to bring order to complexity, create consistency across formats, and give content the space it needs to communicate clearly.

Keep it clean and purposeful. Avoid visual noise

Allow breathing room in every composition. Think carefully about what earns its place on the page. Less, applied with intention, communicates more credibly than more.

Colour with restraint. Accent with purpose

ARTBlue leads. Secondary colours are intentional accents, not decoration. Use colour to guide attention, not overwhelm it. Aim for compositions that feel composed and grounded.

Logo

The logo is the face of ARTPARK – the primary visual expression that we use to identify the brand. It has to be used in this form for all kind of primary merchandise and expressions.

Monochrome Variants

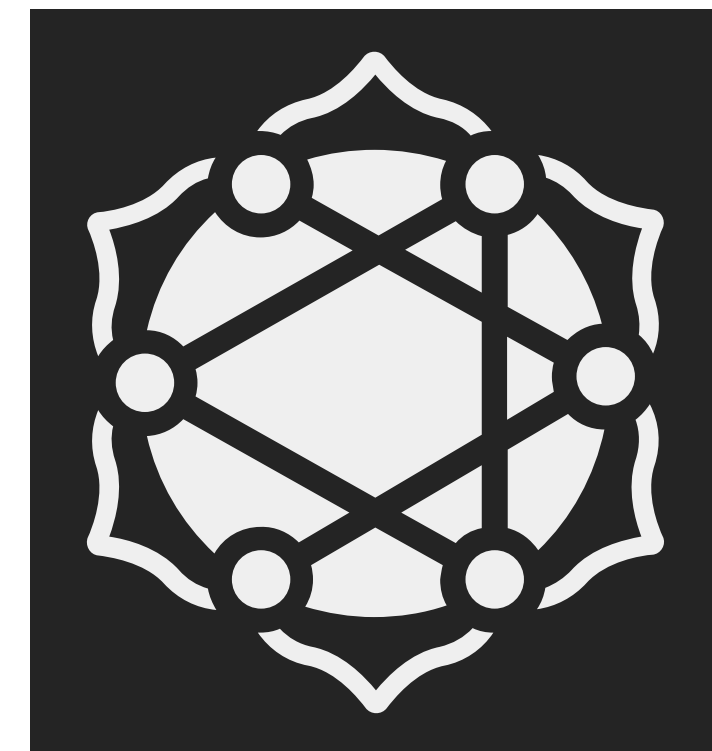

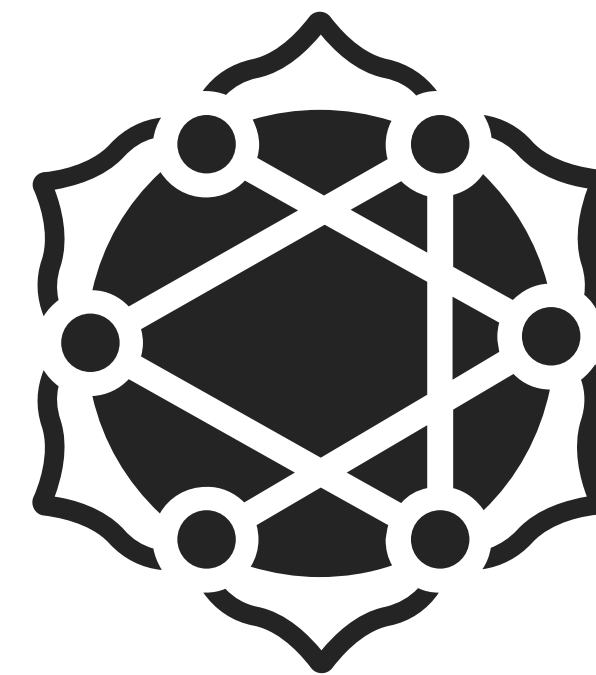

Logomark

The logomark is the short hand variation of ARTPARK – the secondary visual expression that we use to identify the brand. It can be used in places where the identity needs repetitive reproduction such as secondary pages of documents or small stationary / artwork / artefacts. It should be used to signoff any content at secondary level.

Logo Usage - Don'ts

Our Logo is a representation of ourselves. Hence, it is important to use it appropriately. Avoid doing any of the below edits to the logos

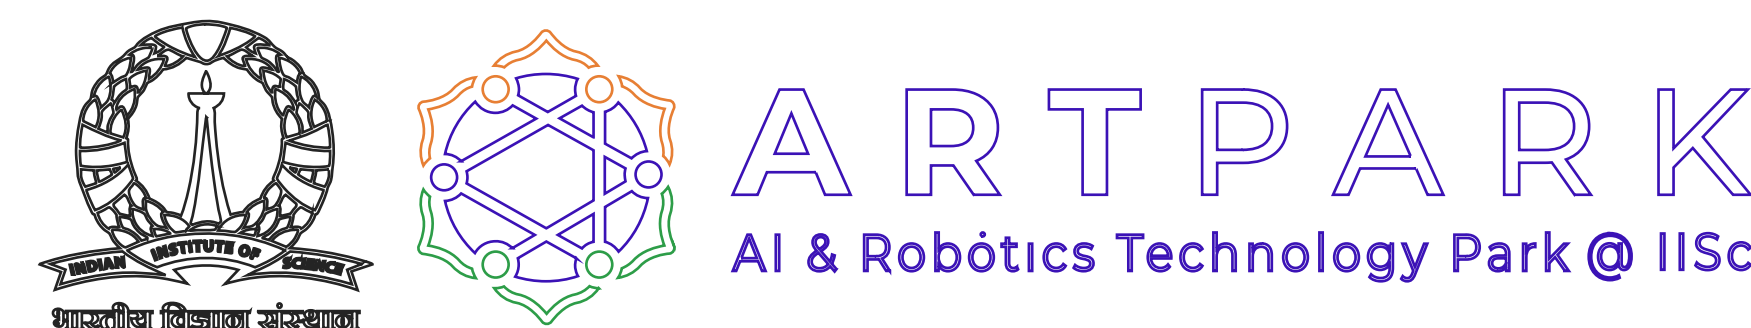

Multiple colors used in the logo

Resizing the logo

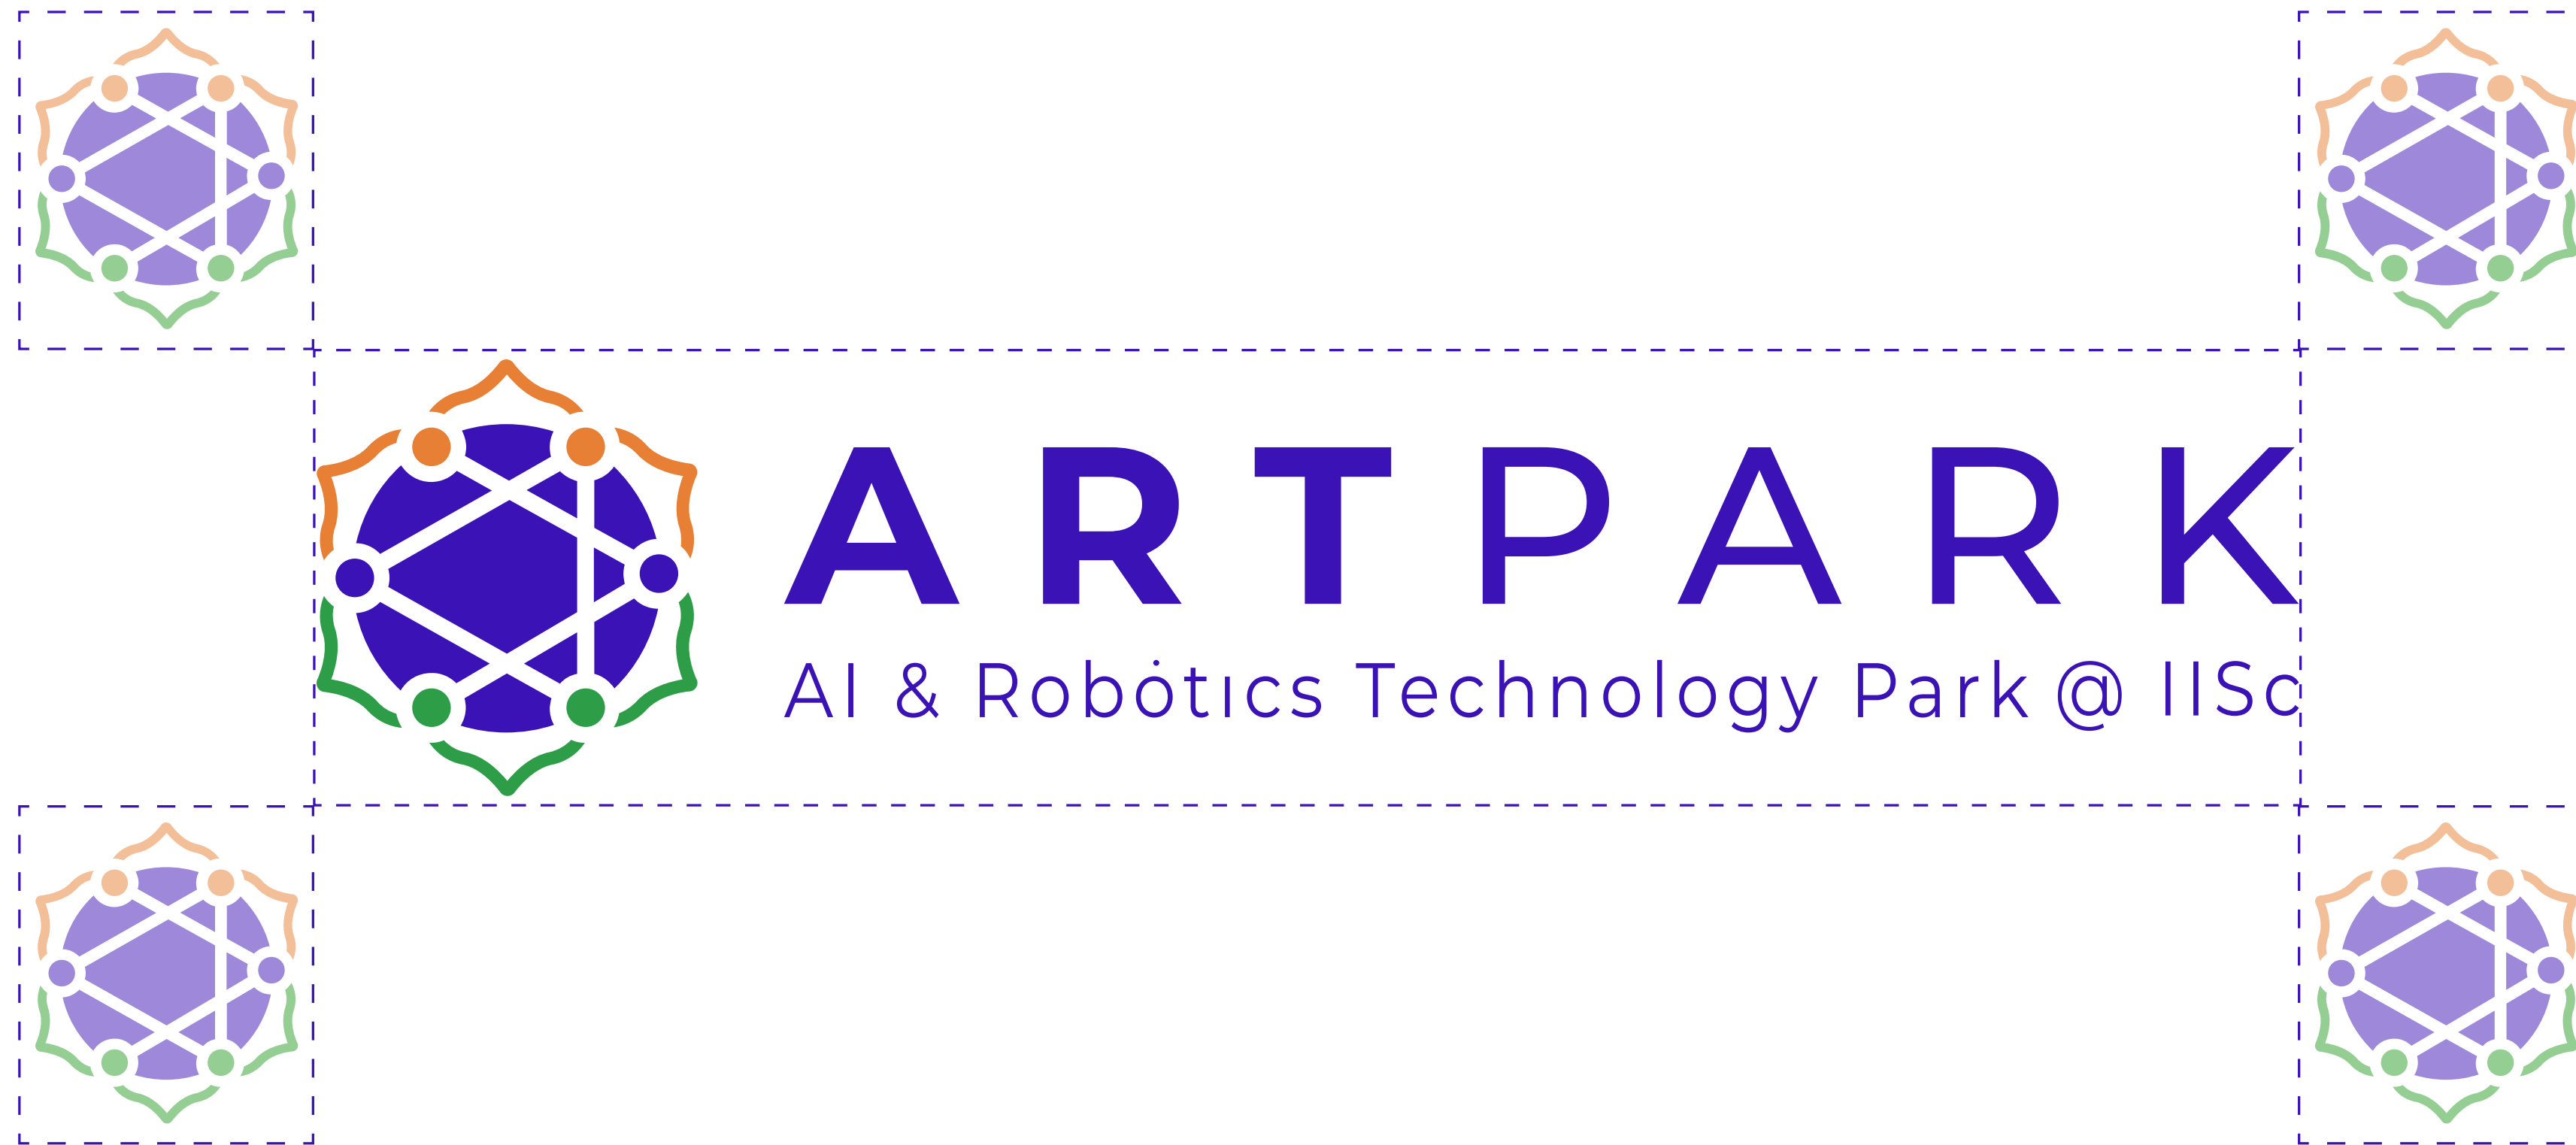

Restructuring the logo

Outlining the Logo

Logo Clearspace

While using the logo, kindly ensure there's a space of atleast the logo symbol here around the logo, free of any content.

Color Palette - Primary Color Scheme

It is important to maintain a sense of hierarchy, balance and harmony when using the ARTPARK’S brand color palette. Our Primary color system reflects ARTPark’s values, mission and goals. These colours are expected to be used across all collaterals from Digital media, Print material, internal communications, etc.
